Course Description

In this class, we will use a range of genres including fiction, autobiographical writings, film and theoretical essays to explore the challenges—aesthetic, political and pedagogical—in representing the Holocaust. Between the years of 1939-1945 some 40 million people were killed in camps, in combat, in the bombing of cities; they died from disease, starvation, atomic bombs and genocidal extermination. While there have been other conflicts in history with massive death tolls, never have so many died so quickly and through such an array of weapons, policies and human actions. Death was produced both efficiently, using new technologies of killing, and with great effort using conventional weapons, hands and guns. People died together; they died alone. They died in families; they died among strangers. People died at home and in bare barracks; they died old and young, rich and poor, healthy and infirm. Certainly a huge percentage of the deaths in this period were manufactured as part of the genocidal mission of National Socialism, engineered by Germans and carried out across the killing sites of Europe—Germany, Poland, the Ukraine—but there were also killing projects engineered by Russia, by Japan, by the allied powers and by the US. Given that we want to understand and grapple with the implications of this catastrophe for human life, what means are available to writers, to film makers, to poets, philosophers, artists and memorialists to represent the ending of a world?

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1) 2 Response papers to be handed in over the course of the semester: 30%
   Each one should react to one of the readings and should be 3 pages long. I will give you guidelines for these responses.

2) Midterm exam in Wk 9 - focused on readings from Wk 1 to Wk 8 15%

3) One Essay (5-6 pages) which engages in a sustained way with either one of the novels or one of the films we watch. 30%
4) Participation/Attendance in Discussion Sections 10%

5) Final Exam – take-home – written essay 15%

Attendance rules are as follows:
All absences should be explained.
After 4 unexplained absences your grade will be reduced by half a point (an A will be reduced to and A minus, a B+ to a B, and A minus to a B+ etc).
After 6 absences your grade will be reduced by a full point (an A will be a B, a B+ will be a C+ etc).
After 8 absences, you will have missed a quarter of the class and will be awarded an F.

Absences will be counted both in lecture and in discussion sections

Participation means: coming to class – both discussion section and lecture, participating in class discussion, completing all assigned readings in a timely manner, asking questions, participating in a presentation group.

STUDENT BEHAVIOR that persistently or grossly interferes with classroom activities is considered disruptive behavior and may be subject to disciplinary action. Such behavior inhibits other students’ ability to learn and an instructor’s ability to teach. A student responsible for disruptive behavior may be required to leave class pending discussion and resolution of the problem and may be reported to the Office of Student Judicial Affairs for disciplinary action. These strictures may extend to behaviors outside the classroom that are related to the course.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES who request academic accommodations based on a disability are required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP. Please be sure the letter is delivered to me (or to a TA) as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m.--5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. The phone number for DSP is (213) 740-0776.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY is essential to maintain an optimal learning environment. General principles of academic honesty include the concept of respect for the intellectual property of others, the expectation that individual work will be submitted unless otherwise allowed by an instructor, and the obligations both to protect one’s own academic work from misuse by others as well as to avoid using another’s work as one’s own. All students are expected to understand and abide by these principles. Scampus, the Student Guidebook, contains the Student Conduct Code in Section 11.00, while the recommended sanctions are located in Appendix A: http://www.usc.edu/dept/publications/SCAMPUS/gov/.
Students will be referred to the Office of Student Judicial Affairs and Community Standards for further review, should there be any suspicion of academic dishonesty. The review process can be found at: http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/SJACS/.
